

To the Parents of

It is my profound pleasure to inform you that your son has earned the highly esteemed honor of Valued Employee! Today is a day for celebration, for he has truly proven himself to be a person of honor and integrity.

To prepare my students for success in today's highly competitive society, the program includes the essential attributes of a strong work ethic: respect, responsibility, hard work, a positive attitude, courtesy, obedience with a Right Heart attitude, cooperation with others, and, of course, trustworthiness. Your son has consistently displayed these attributes at home, in our core class, and in all of his other classes as well.

The road to becoming a Valued Employee is by no means an easy or an effortless path. In the words of Robert Frost, it is "the road less traveled by." Your son will no doubt travel far down this path, which, with uncompromising commitment and steadfast perseverance, ultimately leads to a happy, successful and rewarding life.

Thank you for sharing him with me this year! It is truly a blessing to be his teacher.

In your service,

Olivia La Field
